Capt. Cullen's Rifle Gun Tested,
A party of ordnance experts, including Colonel Steever, Major Anderson, George Anderson, and Captain Cullen, went out to Sligo. Md., Thursday to test a 6.70 model of Captain Cullen's ball bearing rifle gun. The test was conducted on the farms of Mr. Maus, a brother of Colonel Mans, of General Miles' staff, and was entirely satisfactory. The guns tested showed twice the penetration in various substances of the Government Springfield rifle with the same weight bullet and charge of propellant. The guns did not get hot and there was practically no recoil. This test demonstrated the entire practicability of using this system as applied to heavy ordnance were successfully conducted several years ago by the late Chief of Ordnance, Gon. D. W. Flagler. #### Preparation for the Annual Ordway Range Matches.

NATIONAL GUARD AFFAIRS

Wide Public Interest Manifested in the Appronching Event - Many Prizes Offered by Local Merchants -The Commissioners to Be Invited.

Public interest in the annual rifle matches of the District militia at the Ordway Range on October 17, 18, and 19 is greater than it has ever before been in nection with these events. The sweep ng victory of the District riflemen at Sea Girt has attracted general attention this branch of the work of the citizen

It is planned to have on the last day of the Ordway meeting, a match between teams of marksmen representing the National Guard organizations of New Jersey, Maryland, and the District of Columbia. Gen. Bird Spencer, President of the New Jersey State Bifle Association, inder whose auspices the annual matches at Sea Girt are held, will be present, as will Governor Voorhees, of New Jersey and a number of officers of the National Guard of that State.

An invitation to attend the matches will probably be extended the Commis-sioners of the District of Columbia. Spe-cial efforts will be made to have the gen-eral public also witness the matches.

Major James E. Bell, inspector general of rifle practice of the District militia, has practically perfected the arrange-ments for the matches. This year a number of prizes will be awarded to the winners of each match and to the men who make the next highest scores. From merchants of the city a number of prizes have been donated.

One of the important events of the programme is the Merchants' match, to be shot at 200 yards, and open to all men who have not performed duty with the brigade team. In addition to that match there will be events for company teams of five, for buttalion teams of six, regimental teams of six, and the General Ord-MAY BREVET MR. ner, and should the honors be given the President; it will be for his military services rendered the country, entirely distinct from any later services of statesmanship.

The board will simply be obliged to sit in judgment upon the acts performed long before Mr. Roosevelt became President. So far as the board is concerned, the President is simply a colonel of volunteers who has rendered good services to his country. Major General MacArthur is president of the board which has been named.

Colonel Sanger, the Acting Secretary of War, said that he had not learned of the contemplated honor for President Roosevelt. "If the board makes such a recommendation," he said, "it will not make any statement concerning it until the time is ripe for the decision."

When Adjutant General Corbin was asked about the matter, he expressed surprise. He did not know that the board would consider the name of President Roosevelt in this connection. "The President will be on the same footing as other colonels of volunteers," he said. "If there is anything in this I have not heard of it."

Should the recommendation be made President Roosevelt will be the first Chief Maristrate ever called upon to sign his in the distances are 200, 200, 200 and 500 yards, five rounds to be freed at each stage, and two skirmish runs of twenty rounds cach. There will be another event open to all members of the association. In this match ten shots will be fired at 209 yards, and the same number at 209 yards. The first prize of $15 is donated by Woodward & Lothron.

Major Bell on Thursday last, in company with Alexander Grant, Assistant Superintendent of the Railway Mail Service, and Mr. Lyman, appointment clerk of the Treasury Department, witnessed the international yacht race from the deck of the U. S. S. Algonquin.

Quite a pleasant surprise is in store for the team of Company A. First Battalion, which won the tyro match at Sea Girt. In addition to the prize, they received a beautiful engraving. Lieut A. N. Allison, Private E. J. Fink, and Private W. E. Colleday will each receive handsome bronze medals. The medals have been forwarded to Major Bell from Col. Thomas H. Keller, of the Peters Cartridge Company, of Cincinnati, which offered the prize in the tyro match.

During the past week several battalions have completed, at the Ordway range, their regular ordered practice. On Monday last the First Battalion took range practice, sixty strong, On Tuesday forty-three members of the Second and first day last the First Eathallon took range practice, sixty strong. On Tuesday forty-three members of the Second, and five members of the curtailed Third Battallon, were at the range. On Friday the Fourth Battallon proceeded to the Ordway range sixty in number. Today the general staff will report for practice, and the remainder of the brigade will report next week. By far the most noticeable object at National Guard headquarters now is the Hilton trophy. This is the substantial reward of the great uphill fight the District of Columbia riflemen made at Sea Girt. The trophy is slightly dingy, but a pleasant sight for the boys who made such an effort to gain it. It was received several day ago, a short time after the shipment to New Jersey of the intersinte trophy. 'The Soldier of Marathon,' which occupied a pedestal at headquarters. The eral day ago, a short time after the shipment to New Jersey of the listerstate trophy. The Soldier of Marathon," which occupied a pedestal at headquarters. The great shield, upon which is depicted a buffalo hunting scene, rests on a huge easel. In a few days it will be cleaned and burnished. As long as it remains in the possession of the District Guard it will be given the best of care.

The fact that Col. Theodore Mosher, adjutant general of the District militia, is back at his desk at headquarters is a matter of grafification to every member of the Guard from the general commanding down to the traditional "hish private in the rear rank." Colonel Mosher was given leave of abrence several months ago that he might attempt to improve his somewhat broken health. It was thought at the time by many that his connection with the National Guard had ceased for good. After considerable time spent at Warm Springs, Va., he so far improved as to be able to resume his work. He returned to Washington on the 23d instant. Major Ourand, who had been acting adjutant general, was at once released from duty in that capacity.

Colonel Mosher is reputed the most efficient adjutant in the history of the District National Guard. A thorough master of detail, he manages the affairs in his charge in a most capable manner. His extensive regular army experience has proved invaluable on many occasions. During the annual encampment at Leesburg Capt. A. P. Robbins, custodian of property of the Guard, acted as adjutant, performing the duties of that office with eminent proficiency.

In accordance with an order recently issued Capt. A. P. Robbins major C. H. Ourand, and Capt. Edward Riggs inspected a large amount of Guard property at the Centre Market Armory during the past week and passed upon its condition. Much of the property will be destroyed as tweek and passed upon its condition. It was found that the property of the militia was in much better shape than it was a year ago.
